

2012 Pro Hillclimb Season Starts with a Bang

2012 Racer X /Malcolm Smith Motorsports NAHA Pro Hillclimb Series Round 1
Sunnyside, WA, April 27-29, 2012

By Ron Dillon

The only professional motorcycle hillclimb in Washington, the Northwest Nitro Nationals, opened the 2012 hillclimb season, and was also the first round of the 2012 Racer X / Malcolm Smith Motorsports North American Hillclimb Association (NAHA) Championship Series. Turnout for the second year event more than doubled from last year, with 492 entries and 4,100 spectators attending from across the West.

The hill, located 30 miles east of Yakima and 15 miles north of Sunnyside, has a lot of history. First used in 1962, hillclimb events were run on it, off and on, up until 1999. It is a bit remote, but is serviced by two highways, and offers dozens of different competition routes, all averaging around 800 feet which makes it the longest hill on the NAHA circuit.

Friday's competition included a multitude of trophy and semi-pro classes, and used a route that started with a short, very steep ramp, then rolled out a bit, giving riders time to build up some speed before hitting the last, increasingly steep, 400-foot section. The promoters, Jeff and Mellissa Snipes, spent a lot of time and money adding a hill watering system this year and it worked really well, allowing the hills to hold up much better than last year, and remain largely dust free.

As expected, few trophy riders were able to get over the hill. Some especially impressive rides included E. Wenatchee, Washington's Kevin Logsdon, who entered his first ever hillclimb and turned in a solid, 619-foot run to win the 125 class. The 250, 2-stroke stock class is always tough and the top two riders clawed their way over the top, with Matt Morris from Grants Pass, Oregon edging out Nick Pinto from San Ramon, California for the win, and Morris went on to win the 250 4-stroke and 250 altered classes as well, and then threw in a third in the 250 pro class.

More riders than ever drove over from Idaho and won several classes with Lance Hallworth winning the 250 Old Timer Stock class, as well as the Open 2-stroke stock class, and Ethan Simpson topping the vintage class. And Nampa, Idaho's Chase Seal sure turned some heads as he took his Honda CR85 right up and over the top to win the mini pro division and beat a slew of older riders on big bikes. Then, to dishearten even more adults, the second place pro mini rider, Jaden Schnepf from Ontario, Oregon rode his mini over the top as well. It is encouraging to see a whole new generation of talented pro hillclimbers coming up.

Saturday started on a dark and tragic note as popular Baja racer, snowbiker and pro hillclimber, Shane Donaca, from Oregon City, Oregon was killed in a freak accident. The veteran racer was not entered in the event, but was there supporting several younger, up and coming hillclimbers. He made the mistake of not wearing a helmet while warming up a bike and the ensuing crash took his life from severe head injuries. Riders, PLEASE always wear a helmet, even when you are just cruising around. His crash shut the program down for several hours and during that time a hat was passed around and over $1,300 was collected for Donaca's family. Godspeed Shane. You will be sorely missed.

Saturday's Competition resumed at around noon with pro qualifying and ran throughout the day and set the stage for the next day's pro finals. Throughout the day, Octane Addictions provided an awesome freestyle show that kept the crowd engaged and helped raise the understandably somber mood following the crash.

Sunday's pro mains started out with the ultra-competitive 450 class and California riders Logan Mead, Austin Fox and Bret Peterson took first, second and third, respectfully. They were flying and were the only 450s to break the 18-second barrier. Making the afternoon even more interesting was the 6-foot, hand-dug wall that only the pro classes had to face, and although there were a few spectacular crashes on it, most of the pros flew right over it without a lot of fanfare.

The 700 pro class is always thrilling, and it looked like Omaha Nebraska's Harold Waddell had the class won, as the "Gasser" ripped off a perfect first run on his noisy and violently fast, 170 horsepower, nitro Jixer to set fast time in the class. But last year's class winner, Utah's Jason Smith, dropped his rear sprocket down two teeth of gain some top end, and it worked as he shaved over a second off of his first run and set the fastest time of the weekend with a 15.264, pushing Waddell back to the second place spot that he earned last year. It is fun to watch these two push everyone to a higher and higher level year after year.

The pro mains ended with the Open pro final, and Bret Peterson simply took care of business, with his KTM "Duke" pulling half a second over everybody else.

Rounding out the weekend was the always-thrilling, side-by-side X-Climb that pitted the top 16 pros from the 450 class against each other. Long-time pro flat tracker, Dan Stanley from Moses Lake, Washington looked blazingly fast in this event. He had the starts and he had the lines and in the end, he was the last guy standing.

The organizer, Jeff Snipes, wants to thank first and foremost his wife Melissa, who labored long and hard with Jeff to make the event happen. Snipes Racing was also blessed with an excellent staff of workers and volunteers, as well as experienced members of both the OMPC, Port Angeles and Big Nasty, Idaho hillclimbs. Thanks also go out to the numerous sponsors, donors and partners who included the NAHA, Racer X, Malcolm Smith, Les Schwab Tires, Western States Cat Rentals, RE Powell/VP Fuels, Speed Motorsports, Octane Addictions, Rockstar Energy, Pyramid Printing, Townsquare Media, Crawford's Pro Tech, Off-Road Vixens and all of the food and beverage vendors. And of course, the event could not happen without the help of the property owner, Kent Tramel and his family.
